Athletic competition metaphore

► Possiamo mettere in parallelo le competizioni atletiche e le competizioni mercato?

potremmo chiederci chi sia il vincitore in ciascuna di queste due competizioni, quali siano i rispettivi obiettivi dei soggetti che competono (sono? Sono simili? sono "Win-win" o "Win-lose"?)

- chi "vince" i 200 m piani?
- chi "vince" la competizione di mercato?
- quali analogie e quali differenze rileviamo tra le strategie adottate dagli atleti e quelle adottate dalle imprese?
- chi "vince" la competizione di mercato, ad esempio nel settore degli smartphone? quali strategie può adottare l'impresa che opera in tale settore?

A new prospective on strategy and competition in this video Porter points out that a business strategy is necessary to be competitive. However, he underlines that we need to reshape our idea of what competition is. Successful competition is not based on how to be the best but on how to be unique according to the customer's needs
